

The Fiberglass Pergola Revolution Pound for Pound Stronger than Steel, Lighter than Wood

Historically consumers who did not want a wood pergola for obvious reasons could only choose between plastic (aka vinyl) and aluminum which did not come close to offering the refinement of product or structural integrity the typical pergola consumer will accept. Consumers with upscale homes are no longer forced to install plastic and sheet metal pergolas in a space reserved for a quality setting.

Our new innovative fiberglass structures are rapidly becoming the product of choice. We offer an alternative to wood, sheet metal/aluminum and plastic/vinyl structures which is what the market is begging for. Consumers have embraced this product and dealers appreciate the added profit it provides along with a quick easy installation and the piece of mind in knowing that structural fiberglass will never rot, bow, warp or become infested with insects like wood.

Aluminum/sheet metal pergolas have a cold industrial look with few or no color options, cheap snap on tail effects and become permanently dented by hail and other types of light impact.

Vinyl/plastic pergolas are broken down quickly by the freeze thaw cycle, also have snap on tail effects, few color options and a very low heat distortion index of only 178 degrees as opposed to our fiberglass which is over 400 degrees. Large grills and certainly outdoor fireplaces will cause vinyl/pvc plastic pergolas to distort and start emitting a toxic gas at 178 degrees. Plastic pergolas also rely on a metal support for any structural support and still only span about 12' on average. Our structural fiberglass beams span 22' between columns without inner supports in any color your client desires.

We are the only pergola company that will take your multi-angle designs and convert them into a ready to install structural fiberglass system complete with a lifetime warranty finished in your client's choice of thousands of colors. This means you can install intricate, multi-angle, high quality structures in record time.

PergolaKitsUSA's Structural Fiberglass Pergolas offer Affordable Elegance and Lasting Beauty!